

THE COTSWOLD GROUP

Asking the hard questions

Property

It is not the role of The Cotswold Group to adjust a claim, nor to provide specialised forensic examination at the scene of a loss. This remains the function of the various specialists instructed by our principals when creating the optimised team to deal with any loss. Cotswold 'investigate' the claim, asking the right questions and obtaining the evidence.

Cotswold investigators will work closely with your other suppliers, and where required can call upon other assets in the field of intelligence, research and surveillance to progress an enquiry.

We consider the skill sets required to investigate such claims are more akin to those possessed by Detectives dealing with serious crimes. The attention to detail and the gathering of evidence being crucial to the successful conclusion of an investigation.